Kansas Chapter Leadership Conference Promotes Understanding and Development

On April 21, the active Kansas Chapter, in conjunction with the House Corporation Board and Educational Foundation, hosted its first Leadership Conference. This event stemmed from a goal to regularly conduct a forum that would give Kansas DU alumni and active members the opportunity to discuss and express their expectations and gain a better understanding of what the Kansas DU experience is all about.

A crowd of nearly 80 participated in the afternoon event, which featured a rotation of three "break-out" sessions. Each session focused on a different aspect of the Fraternity experience. Brian Bracco '73 and James Waring '03 led a discussion on the topic of personal development and the many ways the Fraternity can influence one's growth. Their commentary equated the operations of the Chapter to a microcosm of the real world. Each member has a specific role and responsibilities that, if taken advantage of, can be built upon to prepare one for the future. Dr. Eric Voth '77 and Chris Wittmann '03 lead a discussion on personal responsibility, covering some of the rigors and dangers associated with college life. Rod Barleen '97 and Kyle Youngberg '02 led the third group in an in-depth discussion of Kansas Chapter's history and traditions.

An interesting observation about these sessions was the realization that even though activities and behaviors aren't much different for today's group of undergraduates, society's perception, definitions, and mores sometimes make for a markedly different experience.

Hopefully, the participants went away with a greater understanding of the current climate of the Kansas Chapter and were motivated by the valuable exchange that took place that afternoon. Here's to building from that foundation to further our development of an environment that promotes friendship, builds character, advances justice, and diffuses liberal culture.

DU SHINING IN PHILANTHROPY, INTRAMURALS, AND ACROSS CAMPUS

Hello from 1025 Emery Road! Kansas Chapter has many achievements to report about this fall.

We have a wonderful fall pledge class. The emphasis placed on Recruitment over the past year has reaped great successes. With the help of numerous alumni recommendations, we were able to formally pledge a class of 27 high-quality young men. Many played varsity sports in high school, were in student government, and each maintained an excellent high school G.P.A.

In the wake of the tragic events of September 11, the Alpha Chi Omega sorority and Delta Upsilon invited Professor Muhammad El-Hodri, a KU professor of economics, to speak about the jihad and Islam. Dr. El-Hodri, originally from Egypt, painted a picture of Osama bin Laden and his motives. The membership of both chapters agreed that Dr. El-Hodri's speech was highly educational. In addition to this, many members dedicated time and money in the campus "Bring Justin Home" campaign. This campaign involved the student body president camping out on campus until $25,000 was raised. His final efforts netted $31,000 for the Red Cross September 11 Fund.

Delta Upsilon continues to shine in the area of intramurals. After taking third on the Hill last year, we swept Delta Gamma's Anchor Splash swimming competition. The football team advanced to the final four in this year's tournament. Currently, we are in the process of gearing up for floor hockey and basketball.

Once again, the Kansas Chapter conducted one of the largest and most successful Greek philanthropic events on the Hill—the 21st Annual Greg Wilkerson Memorial Football Tournament. Twenty-five teams competed during the week of September 17 for the coveted trophy, with Beta Theta Pi and Gamma Phi Beta taking the championship in their respective divisions. The real winner in this event was our community partner, The Villages. Thanks to the much needed support of our business partners and many other contributors, we were able to raise more than $5,000 to support the programs that benefit at-risk children in our area.

DU leaders are shining not just at home, but across campus. We have members in Student Senate, the Water Polo team, Tradition Keepers (Student Alumni Association), and interning with the House of Representatives in Topeka.

I must say 'thank you' to our alumni for your generous support. We strive to live up to the high standards that have been set forth by previous Brothers. Your support, whether it is financial, Recruitment recommendations, or simply compliments and reassuring words, helps us improve the Kansas Chapter of Delta Upsilon. Thank you!

Kansas Chapter Aims for Academic Leadership

The Kansas Chapter is making great strides toward its goal of establishing ourselves as a recognized leader in academic achievements. Last spring, the overall Chapter earned a 2.94 G.P.A., an increase of .11 from the fall semester. Thirty-three percent of our members earned a 3.25 G.P.A. or higher, 60% of the Chapter earned a 3.00 G.P.A. or higher, and 11% were recognized on the honor rolls of their respective schools.

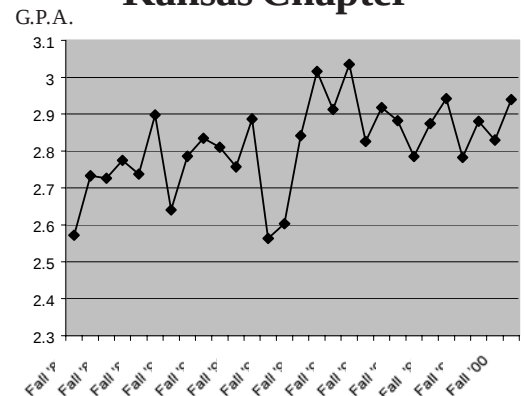

Our scholarship program is consistently evaluated and we are constantly working to improve the overall academic climate of the Chapter. (See chart at right for G.P.A. history.) We have made significant administrative efforts to make study hours more efficient, to regulate member performance throughout the semester, and to implement additional incentives for those individuals demonstrating academic excellence.

On October 29, the Kansas Chapter hosted its annual Scholarship dinner. Twenty-five members were recognized for their scholastic achievement of the previous semester and were presented scholarship checks from the Mother's Club.

Impressively, approximately 20 faculty members were also in attendance, as we work at fostering better relations with the University faculty and administration while communicating our emphasis of building a premier learning community.

Our long-term objective includes an increased diligence in recruiting individuals who have a proven track record of scholastic achievement. A quick glance through the achievements of this year's pledge class and their 3.6 G.P.A. demonstrates our commitment to this measure.

What Is the Purpose of the Kansas Chapter of Delta Upsilon?

Promotion of friendship.
Development of character.
Advancement of justice.
Diffusion of liberal culture.

In 1834, thirty young men at Williams College penned these words as they created an organization on campus that would allow students to compete fairly in campus politics. These students felt they were not able to fairly compete for campus honors and leadership positions since two secret fraternities were conspiring to place their own members in leadership. Delta Upsilon was founded on these “open” principles, but are they still relevant as the center purpose of Delta Upsilon today? Do they continue to serve as a valuable differentiator as today’s students evaluate how they are going to fulfill their college experience? Is it time for us to introspectively evaluate our mission before an outside entity determines that the Kansas Chapter fails to “fulfill adequately objectives consistent with college purpose,” as Williams College deemed fraternities on their campus?

Mark Hopkins, a Williams College professor from 1830 to 1887, pioneered American education by “making the student the center of the educational experience.” He was so successful in this premise that one of his students, Delta Upsilon Brother and United States President James A. Garfield, once remarked, “(t)he ideal college is Mark Hopkins on one end of a log and a student on the other.”

Today, with approximately 28,000 students enrolled in The University of Kansas, this ideal is logistically impossible for KU to implement. However, could it not be manageable within the confines of the DU Chapter? Are we not in a position to enhance the educational experience for our students by combining the resources of our alumni with the resources of the University to create the ultimate learning environment? Is there any reason why the Kansas Chapter of Delta Upsilon should not be considered one of the University’s greatest assets?

As part of Chancellor Hemenway’s “2001 Initiative” for the University, he set a challenge to “build premier learning communities.” How does Delta Upsilon or any other Greek organization fit into this thinking? In the past year, we have seen one fraternity lose its charter, and four have sold their Chapter Houses and are now without formal housing. Does this in any way signify the University’s support of the Greek system? Or should we simply recognize the common thread of poor alumni support for each of these organizations and then evaluate our own involvement?

Recent events in our nation have made us all reevaluate our lives, principles, and values. Economic experts talk of investing in “intellectual capital” as a way to jumpstart the American economy. One commentary focuses on the concept that intellectual capital is the key to economic development. It creates wealth and prosperity, and leads to cultural development, human development, and an enhanced quality of life—individuals living up to their potential as a human being. Does this not sound similar to the ideals of Delta Upsilon?

As we have all had the opportunity to prosper from the investments made for us, there is a need and the opportunity for all of us to reinvest in the intellectual capital formation occurring within the Kansas Chapter. One option is to participate as a mentor in the recently designed Total DU Man program created by the undergraduate leadership of the Chapter. As our undergraduates advance through their curriculum and gain a better understanding of the opportunities in front of them, our hope is to pair them with an alumnus, friend, or community member in a specific field who will occasionally sit across that log and, through a personal dialogue, significantly enhance their learning experience.

If distance or a lack of free time prohibits you from directly participating, another option is to financially invest in the Kansas Chapter. Giving can occur via several methods. Gifts to the House Corporation help ensure a safe living and learning environment that is cost-effective for the undergraduate residents.

Gifts to the Educational Foundation provide scholarships, seminars, resources, and even technological advances within the Chapter House.

Is there any reason why the Kansas Chapter of Delta Upsilon should not be considered one of the University’s greatest assets?

You can also participate through the KU First Campaign by designating your KU campaign gift to the Lloyd Houston Scholarship Fund, which is managed by the KU Endowment Association. You will receive donor recognition from the University as well as on the Kansas Chapter’s annual donor recognition list that appears in The Sunflower.

With these areas of investment, we can continue maintaining our high expectations—developing young men who desire to leave their own legacy and know that they are better men when they walk through the Campanile on graduation day. We will know that the Kansas Chapter, The University of Kansas, and our society will be an even better place because of their contributions in the future.

Active members demonstrate their support for the KU First Campaign. Free t-shirts were distributed on campus in early September and 25 students received $1,000 scholarships during the KU-UCLA football game.

The loyalty and commitment of these Brothers have greatly enhanced the academic environment of the Chapter House. The undergraduate Brothers are deeply grateful to the alumni for making a difference in their lives.

How to Make Your Gift Count Twice!

Many years ago, the Lloyd Houston Fund was set up at the KU Endowment Association to make loans enabling young DUs to stay in school. The fund honors Lloyd Hazen Houston 1902, Williams College, our longtime Chapter counselor and friend. Recently, the fund was converted to an endowed scholarship fund, with the earnings awarded to top DU scholars and/or those with financial needs.

We are anxious to see this fund grow so that we will have sufficient scholarship money available to help recruit and retain top students, as well as help our DU Brothers with financial difficulties.

If you are an annual contributor to the KU Endowment, or if you are considering a capital gift to the KU First capital campaign, you can get double credit simply by designating your gift for the "Delta Upsilon Lloyd Houston Scholarship Fund" at the KUEA. You will get credit and recognition from KU and from your DU Brothers! Plus, deserving young men in our Chapter will get the help and recognition they deserve for their academic efforts.

Gifts to the Lloyd Houston Scholarship Fund count toward the University's KU First Campaign and toward Delta Upsilon Kansas Chapter's annual giving. Gifts should be directed to: The University of Kansas Endowment, P.O. Box 928, Lawrence, Kansas 66044-0928.

Clearly mark your gift (check) with the information below:

Delta Upsilon Lloyd Houston Scholarship Fund # 570549

Note: The Lloyd Houston Fund is separate and apart from the Kansas DU Educational Foundation, whose primary function is to help support the Chapter with grants for educational facilities and equipment. We encourage your continuing support of the Kansas DUEF as well as the Lloyd Houston Fund. All gifts are tax deductible.

Generally speaking, there are three fundamental strategies for making tax-deductible charitable contributions: Giving Now, Giving Later, and Giving & Receiving. This article will provide a brief introduction to each strategy.

Giving Now

Traditionally, Giving Now is the most common method of charitable giving. You simply deliver cash, stocks, life insurance, real estate deeds, or other qualifying assets to the charity itself. Such direct gifts are deductible on your income tax return for the year in which the contribution is made. If the gift value exceeds your maximum allowable deduction for that year, then you may deduct the excess over the next five years. Giving Now allows you to see how your gift is used by the charity. In short, if you are giving while you are living, then you know where it is going.

Giving Later

For some people, Giving Now makes sense for a certain level of current financial commitment. However, given their financial and non-financial circumstances, they may want to wait until death to leave a more substantial gift. While Giving Later means giving up potentially valuable income tax deductions now in exchange for a charitable estate tax deduction at your death, this approach allows you to derive lifetime benefits from your Giving Later assets. Unlike Giving Now, Giving Later often requires prior planning in your legal instruments, such as specific provisions under your Last Will & Testament or Revocable Living Trust. Additionally, through a simple change in your existing beneficiary designations, you may name the charity as a beneficiary under your life insurance and retirement plans.

Giving & Receiving

The Internal Revenue Code (IRC) recognizes that it may be attractive for certain taxpayers to have their cake and eat it too! A popular legal technique in such an approach is the Charitable Remainder Trust (CRT), also known as a split-interest gift under IRC

§664. Through a CRT, you may increase your current income and enjoy current income tax deductions.

Here is how it works once the CRT is created. First, you contribute an asset to the CRT. [Note: Appreciated assets (i.e. assets that would be subject to capital gains taxation were you to sell them yourself) are commonly contributed because they tend to be low-income producers and have a low income tax basis.] Second, the CRT sells the asset without capital gains taxation and then reinvests the proceeds in an income-producing portfolio that grows income tax free inside the CRT. Third, you (and your spouse) receive a lifetime income plus valuable income tax deductions for up to six years. Fourth, following the death of the last surviving income beneficiary, the remaining assets in the CRT pass along your financial legacy to the charity.

Summary

While there is no one-size-fits-all approach to charitable giving, you may want to consider exploring your options regarding when, how, and what to give before making any major contributions.
